ASTHMA! ASTHMA!! ASTHMA!!!

MOTIWALA'S VEGETABLE COUGH PILLS act as a charm in Asthma, Coughs, Bronchitis, and all throat and lung affections.

Motiwala's Cough Pills possess very extraordinary demulcent, expectorant and balsamic properties and may be freely given to infants and old persons. Motiwala's Cough Pills are entirely free from mercurial and other deleterious preparations.

Motiwala's Cough Pills have been certified by Medical and numerous other respectable gentlemen as being very efficacious in the above disorders.

Motiwala's Pills come as a blessing to the Asthmatic and the Consumptive. They require a trial which only costs FOUR ANNAS.

For further particulars and CERTIFICATES OF CURES EFFECTED see handbills which accompany the phials and which may also be had of the Manufacturer and his agents.

Sold in Phials of 4 annas, 8 annas, and 10 annas each, by Messrs. H. S. Madon & Co., 12, Meadow Street, Fort, and all respectable vendors of medicines in all parts of Bombay and the principal Stations in the Bombay Presidency.

Manufacturer—S. B. MOTIWALA, Frere Road, Fort, Bombay.

In addition to the certificates that have already appeared, a few are selected and given below.

The pills have been tried by the members of my family and have been invariably found to produce the desired effect. The cheapness of the article places it within the reach of the poor.

K. M. SHROFF.
Honorary Secretary, Bombay Branch of the National Indian Association of London.

Motiwala's Cough Pills were recommended by me to my friend who was suffering from an obstinate attack of Cough. He was cured of his troublesome cough in a few days. He also tried these pills on other members of his family suffering from a similar complaint, who also got rid of their coughs in a short time. * * *

SHAMRAO BHASKAR,
Justice of the Peace.

D. B. MOTIWALA, Esq.

I have tried your pills in a case of a severe cough and also of severe pains in the side and am glad to say that they have cured me of the cough and have relieved me greatly of the pains in my side. * *

M. CARNEY,
Wife of Mr. Carney, Engine-Driver G. I. P. Railway.

"Mr. Motiwala," says the Daily Telegraph, "has given to the public his celebrated vegetable Cough Pills and Dysentery mixture, both very valuable medicines, as testified by certificates from numerous respectable gentlemen. * * The efficacy of these medicines has created a very large demand for them."

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

SATURDAY EVENING, Nov. 29, 1879.

THE general improvement in trade which set in after the Dewali holidays still continues to gain ground, and so far the season gives promise of being one of the most active on record. Export produce, as yet, is of course only coming forward in comparatively small quantities, but a fair business is now doing for forward delivery in Cotton and other articles, and in a few weeks ready transactions on a large scale will be practicable. Imports, more especially Piece Goods, are unquestionably meeting a very active demand, which to all appearance will develope as the season goes on; as not only have we most favourable reports from the large consuming districts, but we have a visible proof of the improved condition of the bulk of the people, in the rapid decline which has latterly taken place in the price of the commoner descriptions of food grain. On every side, in fact, there is evidence of the basis existing for many active trade, and whether it may prove profitable or not only rests with the mode in which it is conducted.

MONEY.—The last return of the Bank of Bombay showed an increase in the Cash Balances of upwards of 25 lacs, due entirely to a reduction in the trade demand for accommodation. In the face, however, of the rapid development of current business which may shortly be anticipated, there is little probability of this movement proving more than temporary; and so far from rates of discount becoming easier we should say an advance is much more likely. With a Cash Balance of only 126 lacs the position of the Bank for this period of the year is the reverse of strong, especially with the probability of the Government account proving a source of weakness instead of strength for the next few months, and it would be no matter for surprise if rates for accommodation touched a comparatively high level this season.

EXCHANGE.—A fair business has been done in Sterling during the week, but the tendency throughout has been more in favour of buying than selling, and rates have given way about one per cent. A decidedly weak feeling was introduced with the beginning of business for this mail, by the receipt on Tuesday of telegraphic advice, that Germany had declined to be a party to another conference on the Silver question; news of considerable shipment of Silver to this port from Austria; and lower quotations for the Metal from London. Rates accordingly opened on Tuesday morning on the reduced basis of 1s. 8 9-16d. for demand Bank and 1s. 8 27-32d. for 3 months' sight Credit Bills, and during the day a further decline of 1-16d. was established in the former and 1-32d. in the latter. On Wednesday some exceptional transactions in Bank Paper caused a partial recovery of 1-32, but on Thursday, Council drafts having brought an average of slightly under 1s. 8 7-16d. per Rupee, or about 1-16d. worse than was expected, an equivalent fall was established. Friday saw an additional decline of 1-16d. in Bank Paper and 1-32d. in Bank Bills; but to-day, although still quiet, and if anything easier in tone, there has been no further change in the market, closing quotations being—Bank Bills on demand 1s. 8 7-16d.; 3 months' 1s. 8 9-16d.; Credits, 3 months' sight 1s. 8 11-16d.; Documents, 3 months' sight 1s. 8¾d. per Rupee.

For delivery up to the end of the year current rates are quoted, indicating that the tendency at the moment is towards lower figures, and, judging from the general tone, a further decline seems probable. It is daily becoming more evident in fact that the rapid rise which took place three weeks ago was mainly owing to outside speculation, and not ordinary trade influences; and as usual in such cases it is not at all unlikely that the reaction may take us nearly as much below a legitimate level as we previously went above it. There is certainly nothing in the existing position to warrant higher than the present level of rates, if so high, in the face of 40 lacs of Council drafts and an average of something like 20 lacs of Silver per week; but another six weeks will materially alter the relative positions of our import and export trades, and unless something springs up to effect Silver at Home, there should then be the basis for an important recovery. Perhaps the strongest feature against such a movement lies in the general anticipation of it. The belief in an ultimate advance is very widespread, and the natural tendency to anticipate—in the part of some by laying down funds in advance, by others in keeping remittances in abeyance—has of course a considerable adverse influence. We do not think, however, that speculation on a rise has gone further than what may prove but a slight check on the looked for advance.

On Calcutta the demand rate remains at 1-16 to ⅛ per cent. premium, 60 days' sight at ⅛ per cent. discount. On China, 60 days' sight Mercantile Bills are nominally quoted at Rs. 217 per 100 dollars. From Hong Kong, the latest quotation for 4 months' sight Bank Bills on London is 3s. 10½d. per dollar, and from Shanghai 5s. 3½d. per tael.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.—With declining exchange and slightly lower quotations for Enfaced Paper from London, the market naturally has not been strong, but there has, nevertheless, been a very fair business doing, and rates on the week are about ¼ higher. Fours close at Rs. 93, Fours-and-half, Rs. 101 5-16 to ⅜.

SHARES.—Although not particularly active, the market throughout has shown a firm steady feeling, and any changes, as a rule, have been in favour of holders. In Banks we have to notice a further improvement of ¼ per cent. in Bank of Bombay, which close at Rs. 676½. National Bank are unchanged at Rs. 105, Agra Rs. 1 lower at Rs. 121. In Land Companies the only movement during the week has been an advance of Rs. 10 per share in Colaba; and in Press shares we have merely to note an advance of Rs. 25 in Akbar and Rs. 5 per share in Mofussil and Sind Press. Spinning and Weaving Mill shares, notwithstanding the steady rise in Cotton, continue to improve in value with very few exceptions. Manockjee Petits have declined Rs. 10 and Jewraz Balloo Rs. 15, but there is an advance of Rs. 5 in Morarjee Goculdass, Rs. 10 in Hindustan, Khandesh, Khatau Makanjee, and Oriental, Rs. 15 in Coorla and Sholapoors, Rs. 20 in Dhurumsey and Great Eastern, and Rs. 25 in Empress, Bassoon, and Soonderdass.

PIECE GOODS.—Higher prices in Manchester and the steady downward tendency in Exchange has checked arrival business materially, and actual forward transactions on a Sterling basis have been comparatively limited. On the spot, however, and from the bazaar, the off-take is maintained on quite the extended scale which set in with the resumption of business after the holidays, and the clearances cannot be put at less than about 3,000 packages per week. The prevalence of fever in some of the largest consuming districts, and the generally quiet tone of Calcutta, has in some measure exercised a restrictive influence on our market; but as regards the latter a change seems coming on, late advices reporting somewhat better feeling, while the setting in of the cold weather may be expected to bring about a better state of public health. Otherwise the position of the trade here is sound, and generally speaking more in favour of slightly higher prices; supplies both here and in the different up-country centres being comparatively moderate, and the prospects of demand encouraging.

In Grey Goods the description in most request is still 39 inch Grey Shirtings, especially duty free 7 lbs. and 8¼ lbs., in which an advance of As. 1 per piece has been established. In 44 inch goods a steady moderate business is passing at fully previous rates, and wider makes, 50 inch and upwards, prices are well maintained. Printers and Madapollams meet a good average demand at quite previous rates. Jaconets are in comparatively light supply, and prices in some instances are As. ¼ to As. 1 per piece higher. For Cloths the enquiry is not active, unless for the finest makes. Mulls are steady at unchanged quotations. In Dhoties a large business has been done both from first and second hands at hardening prices. Bleached Goods show an improving tendency. Jaconets, Mulls, and Nainsooks receive most attention, but the feeling is firmer and prices slightly in sellers' favour. In Dyed and Printed goods there is also rather more doing, although supplies are too large in proportion to the demand to admit of prices rising. Turkey Reds goods are steadier. Local made goods continue in fair request. Prices are no higher, but about 1,500 packages have changed hands during the week at full quotations.

TWIST.—For English Yarns there has been a good demand on the spot, and in the bazaar an advance of Re. ¼ per lb. has been established in 30s. Water and 40s. Mules. To arrive, however, transactions have been light, rates here showing no margin on Manchester quotations. Stocks are light and the tone of the market firm. In Local Yarns a very active feeling has again prevailed, and a considerable business has been done for export at an advance in some cases of ½ to ¾ annas per lb.

METALS.—Copper.—Under the influence of higher prices from Home, prices have advanced As. 8 to As. 12 per cwt. for Sheets and Raised Bottoms, but Brazier and Tiles are unchanged. Stocks are small. Yellow Metal is firm, and both Braziers and Sheathing have advanced As. 8 to annas 12 per cwt. Iron is stronger all round; a more active demand has been apparent, and a considerable business has resulted at an advance of As. 8 to Re. 1 per candy.

COAL.—On the spot there has been very little done this week, but prices are fairly steady, supplies being comparatively moderate. To arrive, however, there has been considerable pressure to sell steamer cargoes, and a cargo of Cardiff and one of Davison's have been placed at Rs. 20½, and one of the latter at Rs. 20 per ton alongside, all December sailing.

COTTON.—With active advices from Liverpool by wire, the market this week has been most active, and but for short supplies of Old Cotton and the absence of sellers of new, a very large business would have been done. As it is the transactions in Old Crop sum up about 4,000 bales, consisting of about 2,500 for Export and 1,500 for local consumption, and in New Cotton for future delivery about 4,000 bales, all for Export. In Old the purchases ran mostly in G. F. Dholleras and Omra at about Rs. 207 to Rs. 208, and in New Omra made up three-fourths of the whole, the rest being Broach for March and Hingunghaut for December delivery.

Prices show an advance during the week of Rs. 2 to Rs. 4 in Old and Rs. 3 to Rs. 10 per candy in New Crop, but at the close buyers show little disposition to operate largely at the top quotations.

Receipts to date show the following comparisons with the two previous seasons:—

	1879	1878	1877
For the Week	5,308	4,550	5,288
Since 1st September	73,904	41,339	39,427
Since 1st January	8,39,674	8,99,640	10,24,626

The Clearances for Sea since the departure of last mail have been 6,350 bales, making a total of 634,689 bales, as against 732,718 bales for the corresponding period last year.

New Crops.—Hingunghaut is now beginning to come forward, and several lots have arrived here, all so far showing some dark leaf and stain but otherwise good. The local mills on the district now buy so freely of this description that only a very small quantity comes to this market. Omrawutties and Khandeish are arriving in small lots of 20 to 50 bales, and several samples shipment have already gone forward. The quality has no improvement as yet, the bulk only running Good Fair, and it is evident that it will be after the turn of the year before we see either large arrivals or better quality. The reports, in fact, are much less favourable than they were regarding this growth, and some well informed people are now of opinion that it will not prove a full average yield. Dholleras advices continue most favourable, and a large crop of good quality seems pretty well a certainty. It will also be early, some hand samples of New Bhownugger having already been received, a thing we do not remember before in November. Broach promises very well, and ought to begin to come in pretty freely before the end of January.

The following are to-day's quotations for Fully pressed Cotton with the equivalents in Sterling, Cost, and Freight to Liverpool, via Canal, without commission:—

We subjoin our usual comparison of the statistical position of the staple on Friday as against the corresponding date of the two previous years. During the week, the visible supply for all Europe has increased by 80,000 bales, but the Liverpool stock is only 20,000 bales larger. The stock of Surats in Liverpool has further decreased by 5,000 bales, the total being now only 51,000 bales.

The American Crop figures to date afford the underneted comparisons with the two previous seasons. The heavy receipts at the ports for this week bring up the total since 1st September to an excess of 408,000 bales over the corresponding period of last season; but judging from the firmness displayed both in Liverpool and New York the present heavy arrivals do not appear to be taken as indicating a proportionate increase in the total crop.

SEEDS.—Linseed continues in good demand for export, and notwithstanding the high rates of freight ruling, the limited supplies available have prevented any giving way in prices, which we still quote at Rs. 7 to Rs. 7-3 per cwt. according to quality. Rapeseed is quite neglected, the small stock on the spot consisting of very inferior quality. We quote Gujarat nominally Rs. 6-5 to Rs. 6-8, Cawnpore Rs. 6 to Rs. 6-5 per cwt. Reports of the New Crop continue most promising. Gingelly has been coming forward more freely during the past week, and prices at Marseilles being considerably below our level, rates have given way Re. 1 per candy, to-day's quotations being:—White, Rs. 43 Mixed, Rs. 40½ to Rs. 41 per candy.

WHEAT is quiet, existing rates of freight preventing exporters from operating all freely. Supplies, however, are small, and prices only give way very slowly. We quote:—Best Soft White, Rs. 41 to Rs. 41½; No. 2 Rs. 39½ to Rs. 40; No. 3 Rs. 38 to Rs. 39, per candy.

STEAMER REPORTS.

GALLE, Nov. 30, 6-35 AM.

Mail steamer Kaisar-i-Hind from Bombay arrived.

THE Secretary to the Chamber of Commerce favours us with the following telegram, reporting on the state of the cotton crop in the Berars, from the Commissioner H. A. D. stated Amraoti, circulated for the information of the members of the Chamber :—" Cotton picking going on. Outturn fair."

AT the last annual meeting of shareholders of the New Colaba Company, the directors were authorised to purchase the property of the Colaba Spinning and Weaving Mills—which stand in the relation of lessors and lessees to each other—for such amount as to the directors might appear proper. In September last, an offer of Rs. 3,50,000, subsequently raised to Rs. 4,00,000 was made; but the official liquidators of the Colaba Spinning Company had said for Rs. 6,00,000, and the offer of the New Colaba Company was therefore rejected as "much too low to be considered." In October last the liquidators invited private offers for the sale of the property, which were to be received until the 1st November. A week before that date, the New Colaba Company obtained during the vacation an injunction of the High Court restraining the liquidators from entering into any contract for the sale of the leasehold interests of the company. This step was complained of as one that would "cause great injury to the Colaba Spinning and Weaving Company." On Saturday last, the injunction order was argued at the High Court before Mr. Justice Green, who was of opinion that what the New Colaba Company wished was to intercept the sale of the mill, which they had no right to do. His Lordship therefore discharged the injunction order with costs, thus leaving the liquidators free again to sell the mill.

COLONEL SHERELL, of the Bombay commissariat, has arrived at Kandahar and takes over executive charge from Captain Hobday from to-day. Colonel Edwardes, Bombay Staff Corps, is expected shortly to take over charge of the transport arrangements.

THE theatre, a description of which we lately published, is being pushed on towards completion. Much still remains to be done, but efforts will be made to have all in readiness so that an opening may be made on Saturday next, as a first contemplated. Mr. Teesdale, and the other members of the company arrived in Bombay by the Rydal Hall on Saturday morning last.

MR. SPENCE, Postmaster-General, Bombay, will act for Lieutenant-Colonel Moore-Lane as Postmaster-General of the Punjab, during the time that the latter officiates as Director-General of the Post Office.

WE understand that, on the recommendation of the military authorities, the Government have sanctioned the payment of a reward of one hundred rupees to Dhoby Sunnassee, of Tatticonda, for the assistance rendered by him in the way of affording information with regard to the insurgents in the Rumpa rebellion. We further hear that it has been recommended to Government that as a preventative measure against future risings, the villages should be disarmed, and that in case of all villagers which have taken no part in the insurrection, or who have not given any assistance to the insurgents by way of food or otherwise, or who have not failed to supply information to the authorities when it was within their power to do so, a money compensation should be granted for all arms taken, and all the arms sent to the Arsenal at Madras for destruction.

A SPECIAL telegram to the Allahabad paper, under date 28th November, states that General Baker, on marching to Benibadan on the previous day, found the kotal above the village occupied by the enemy. He took them in the flank, got mountain guns in action, and after a few shells the enemy bolted. The troops then moved into the village. The Mullicks had previously been made prisoners. The previous day they behaved most treacherously, allowing General Baker, while conversing quietly with them in the village, to be nearly cut off without warning him that armed men were near. For this treachery the village was burned and all property destroyed. The inhabitants all deserted their houses, seeking safety in nullahs. The troops returned to Maidan, having done 25 miles in one day, General Baker's prompt attack was made just at the proper moment, as news has since been received that Muski Alam, a prominent local chief, with three thousand men, was to have reached Benibadan on the day of the attack and make a night attack on Maidan. It is probable now the bands will disperse, as the Mullicks see what severe punishment was dealt out to them. General Baker leaves Maidan for a few days.

IT is announced that the Hindu and Mahomedan notables of Patna have resolved, at a recent meeting, to raise a subscription for the Kabul campaign. A sum of Rs. 19,000 is said to have been already collected. When they get all they want, they will then consider what they are to do with the money. For the present, they are rather uncertain as to its destination.

THE Thull correspondent of the Allahabad paper, writing on the 24th ult., says :—" Brigadier-General Gordon has now returned to Simla. As far as the different commands are concerned, there have been certain anomalies and a considerable amount of confusion : any amount of brigadiers, but no appreciable brigades. Since General Watson's arrival, however, things have assumed some shape ; he now commands all troops from Peiwar to Kushalghur, and under him are Brigadiers Tytler and Gibb, the latter having his head-quarters at Kohat. Yet herein lies another phenomenon : Kohat is held by a frontier battery and a wing of a frontier regiment, both under a frontier General, i.e., Brigadier Godby. Now, as no man can serve two masters, one ought to be hated and the other loved ; but I believe in this instance, love predominates in the case of both officers ; still the whole thing shows the absurdity of any longer keeping the force on its present footing ; and if matters did not work smoothly, serious inconvenience might be caused. One Madras regiment, the 1st, has been halted at Kohat much to their disgust ; indeed, it seems cruel to bring a regiment so far, avowedly for active service, and then halt it, to do ordinary garrison duty. Some people argue that their constitutions are unfit to stand cold, forgetting that the Madras Sappers, who are the same race and hail from the same latitude, are shoved on, simply because their services are too valuable to be dispensed with ; and yet their mortality has been nothing extraordinary. It certainly would be politic to give them a chance of letting off a few rounds, more especially as there are many corps that had quite enough of the last war that would gladly allow them to take their place.

THE Eurasian organ in Calcutta maintains that the report of the probable retirement of the first Indian Viceroy, who has seriously attempted to remove the Eurasian problem from the region of speculation to the domain of fact, cannot be regarded with indifference by the men whom he has endeavoured generously to serve. "All that has been false in Lord Lytton's viceroyalty has been imposed on him from above ; what has been true in it—in the new recognition of the grievances of the real native gentry, as well as in new impulse given to Eurasian hope—has been essentially his own. Sad as it may be to have an unjust war on our hands, trying as it may be for the fangs to be pulled out of some venomous newspapers, and deplorable as it may be to hear weaknesses that cannot add to the dignity of the English character, truly or untruly imputed to any one in high office in this country, the proposition can be fairly maintained that, if the Eurasian trouble is fairly laid in this viceroyalty, in the teeth of both honest opposition and vicious misrepresentation, Lord Lytton will have earned a place in Indian history which has been denied to more sanctimonious rulers, who have recognised a serious blot in the British administration of India, only to shrink from it in fright."

THE Government of India, says the Delhi Gazette's Mussoorie correspondent, have refused permission to Sirdar Mahomed Shurrif Khan, brother of the late Amir Shere Ali Khan, who is now a State prisoner at Derab, to proceed to Kabul ; but the privilege of sending for his family has been accorded to him.

A TELEGRAM from Thull states that a band of Khostwal and Waziri robbers raided on the 20th instant near Chapri. They were, however, rapidly followed up by some infantry and a few sabres of the 18th Bengal Cavalry, under Resaldar Nadir Ali, who managed to kill and wound several of the raiders. Five dead bodies have been brought into Thull. On the 24th idem, a party of Zaimusht thieves committed a fresh raid in the same direction, and succeeded in carrying off some cattle and other property. This band was also followed, and the cattle recovered, and dispersed after some resistance, in which three or four sowars were slightly wounded. The enemy left two of their number dead, and several others wounded. The property carried off in both cases has been recovered, with the exception of some of the cattle shot by the band.

MR. GEORGE YULE, who signalized himself by his attack on the policy of Lord Lytton, has resigned his appointment as one of the Municipal Commissioners of Calcutta.

THERE seems likely to be plenty of work in hand on the Clyde during the next few months, the French Messageries Maritimes Company having ordered ten fast steamers for the mail service and ordinary trade in the Mediterranean, the cost of building which will be over £500,000 ; and the well-known firm of Messrs. John Elder & Co. have the contract for most of them. Several other heavy orders from various parts have been contracted for by firms on the Clyde lately.

Truth says—The War Office authorities have lately been guilty of a great blunder. Hitherto the white helmets which soldiers wear in India to protect their heads from the effects of the sun, have been furnished to the troops before they embarked for the East. The consequence was that they had the benefit which this headdress affords during the voyage on the Red Sea and upon disembarking at Bombay. But according to the new order, these white pith helmets are only to be served out after the men reach India, so that they are exposed to an Eastern sun with nothing more than their glengarry forage caps on their heads, for several days on board ship and for four or five days after they land. The result of this regulation, which has only been in force two or three months, is that where there was one case of sunstroke before, there are now a dozen. With the white helmets it is almost impossible for the men to suffer from the effects of the sun on their heads, but with the small dark-coloured glengarry cap, it is a miracle if they do not. Why the change has been made, unless to benefit some Indian contractor, it is impossible to say.

THE prospects of the crops throughout Bengal continued very favourable during the week ended the 22nd of November, except in part of Birbhum and throughout Orissa, where more rain was wanted. Prices are reported as falling in several districts, but fever continued prevalent in many, and cholera was bad in those districts of Chittagong lately inundated by the storm-wave.

THE directors of the Bank of Bengal, at their meeting on Thursday, made no alteration in the rates of interest or discount.

IT is satisfactory to learn from the last official reports that the prices of food grains were beginning to fall in many districts of the Central Provinces.

THE Lieutenant Governor has sanctioned the outlay, by the Calcutta Port Commissioners, of the sum of Rs. 11,375 for the construction of a landing stage on Grey's wharf, opposite the new River Steamer Company's godowns on the Strand Bank lands.

THE Maharaja of Gwalior has been trying to introduce the cultivation of indigo into his dominions. An area of 3,000 beegahs has actually been brought under cultivation, and each beegah yielded some 100 maunds of indigo. Samples of the article were sent to the Calcutta dealers who have declared it to be of a good quality and likely to fetch a fair price in the market. There has been a good deal of local opposition to the experiment ; but His Highness the Maharaja has overcome the prejudices of his people, and the results promise to be highly successful. The Maharaja hopes, when the Viceroy visits Gwalior to show His Excellency some samples of the new produce. And indigo is not the only novelty which the Maharaja contemplates. The introduction of paper-making and iron foundries are also thought of ; and if these improvements are carried on, hand in hand with the multiplication of roads and railways, the wealth of Gwalior and the prosperity of the people will be considerably increased.

A NUMBER of Hindu and Mahomedan gentlemen who have formed themselves into an "Indian Association of Cawnpore," have resolved that "the goddess of small-pox has no objection to vaccination, or at least has no casus belli for a religious warfare against it." They have therefore signified their approval of Mr. Syed Ahmed Khan's bill in a letter which they have just addressed to Government. They believe that many of the lower orders, as well as all the upper and better educated classes, are fully capable of appreciating the advantages of a compulsory measure ; and they suggest that "native gentlemen of acknowledged status" should be employed to try offences under the Act. But this may be done by municipal and local committees, if these bodies have an adequate idea of their business.

THE following police announcement is commended by the Lahore paper, as a model for this species of document, to the notice of all officials :—" Bishen Sing being long about 5 feet 6 inches, his body is small sized, and a slender one. Hair of head mere black and long, and his age about thirty-five years and at the left arm and on stomach there are two spot of phoorai rag and the color of his body is blue or saoulla and his bosom about twelve fingers and he had about five hundred rupees cash with him, and had taken away two bags one of cloths and other of his account paper and book and the paper of those book and paper are bamboo color and one bed."

ST. ANDREW'S DINNER IN BOMBAY.

On Saturday evening, the members of the Scotch community in Bombay met at the festive board to celebrate the anniversary day of St. Andrew, the patron Saint of Scotland. The dinner was held at Altamont, a bungalow situated on Cumballa Hill, and was attended by most of the leading Scotchmen of the city. The Hon. M. Movat occupied the chair, and there were also present :—H. E. Admiral Jones, General Hewitt, Major Birch, Mr. Justice Kemball, Justice Bayley, Hon. E. W. Ravenscroft, Hon. L. R. Ashburner, Messrs. Grattan Geary, J. M. Maclean, Waugh, C. H. B. Forbes, J. M. Drennan, A. Morrison, J. A. Cameron, Jas. Hay, Andrew Hay, John Macfarlane, Wade Gardiner, C. Seymour Keay, J. P. Sturrock, Jas. Douglas, J. H. Slight, A. M. Ker, Dr Mavrocachi, F. C. Macrae, G Oliver, A. Harvey, Hon. M. Balfour, Messrs. C. J. Sharp, T. H. Whitehead, T. A. Elliot, J Stevens, D Bain, H. W. Jones, D. S. Kemp, W. Maitland, F. L. Steel, W. R. Wyer, W.M. Tennent, A. F. Simpson, H. A. Erskine, A. Maclear, B. B. MacTaggart, John Y. Laog, Q. L. Stewart, G. E Forbes, R. D. Cairns, Allan Arthur, John Wilson, J. Hutton, W Blackhall, W. M. Macaulay, D. Macfadyen, J. Gordon, Dr. Hunter, Messrs. John Marshall, L. Wilt, A. Tait, P. Peterson, J. A. Cassels, Dr. Pinkerton, Messrs. W. G. Smytian, J. N. Graham, J. A. Bryce, J. Melville, N. Glover, W. Moss Macdonald, R. Clark, R MacEwan, Captain E. H. Fenn, Messrs. A. Macintosh, G. H. R. Hart, S. L. Macnaghten, S. A. Dingen, Jackson, Lynch, Dr. Gray, Mr. E. Comber, Captain Hector, Messrs. W. T. Crockett, R. W. Mant, J. Pouts, G. E. Noble, C. S. Lyon, Lieut. Rodick, Messrs. W. C. Fisher, W. A. Baker, Comr. Drury, Dr. Hughes, Messrs. G. K. Remington, W. Pendlebury, N. Randle, Anderson, R. Gay, J. Nugent, J. Burn, A. A. Conroy, Professor Wordsworth, Captain Belkley, Messrs. E. B. Carroll, H. A. Richardson, Rienzi Walton, H. Curwen, Hon. John Marriott, and Mr. J. T. Lindsley.

The dinner was served in excellent style in the large reception hall of the bungalow, which had been very tastefully adorned with flags for the occasion. His Excellency the Governor's band was in attendance, and both during and after dinner played some excellent airs. The great feature of the musical portion of the entertainment, however, was contributed by the officers of the 78th Highlanders, who kindly sent down from Poona two stalwart pipers to enliven their countrymen in Bombay, with the strains of the national musical instrument of Scotland. These pipers at periods during the dinner, and at intervals between the toasts paraded the room playing some popular Scotch airs, which seemed to be much appreciated. The room was a very bad one for hearing, and gentlemen proposing and replying to toasts, could only be heard by those in their immediate vicinity. The consequence of this was that most of the best speeches were lost to the majority of the guests. A bill of fare printed in Scotch, and very cleverly compiled amongst the guests, and as this is a very quaint conception we print it for the benefit of our readers who were not present at the dinner.

At the conclusion of the dinner, the Chairman rose to propose the first toast. In doing so he said :—Gentlemen,—The first toast at all public banquets of this nature is that of the Queen-Empress. In her long and prosperous reign, the noblest and the best qualities of the nation have been developed, and every year seems to increase her sovereign sway, as well as to endear her to her countrymen, especially when she commanded in all the virtues which adorn her sex she stands pre-eminent—(hear, hear)—and the dear old country north of the Tweed seems to have for her special attractions. (Cheers.) Nowhere is her domestic worth seem to greater advantage than in her home and life.

"The grisly cliffs which guard
The infant rills of Highland Dee."—Loud Cheers.

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm, the band playing "God save the Queen."

The Chairman in rising to propose the toast of the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the other members of the Royal family, said :—Gentlemen,—Second only to the toast which has just been drunk with enthusiasm is that of the Prince and Princess of Wales and the other members of the Royal Family. On the soil of India this toast will always be a favorite one. (Cheers.) With the view of fitting himself for the exalted position which he has been called on to fill, His Royal Highness has visited not a few of the vast possessions to which he is heir. Yet in no country has he found a warmer welcome than in India, and his name will be long and loyally remembered as a household word by those who witnessed the progress of His Royal Highness. (Cheers.) In all the arts of peace and industry he takes a lively interest, thus proving himself the worthy son of a worthy sire. (Hear, hear). His endeavours reherstily supported by the gem which adorns his home—the Princess of Wales. [Loud cheers.] Among the other virtues which soldiers wear in India to protect their heads from the effects of the sun, have been furnished to the troops before they embarked for the East. The consequence was that they had the benefit which this headdress affords during the voyage on the Red Sea and upon disembarking at Bombay. But according to the new order, these white pith helmets are only to be served out after the men reach India, so that they are exposed to an Eastern sun with nothing more than their glengarry forage caps on their heads, for several days on board ship and for four or five days after they land. The result of this regulation, which has only been in force two or three months, is that where there was one case of sunstroke before, there are now a dozen. With the white helmets it is almost impossible for the men to suffer from the effects of the sun on their heads, but with the small dark-coloured glengarry cap, it is a miracle if they do not. Why the change has been made, unless to benefit some Indian contractor, it is impossible to say.

The toast was drunk with cheers.

The Chairman—Gentlemen, the next toast is that of "Our Viceroy, the Governor of Bombay, and the land we live in," and I am sure it is one which will be warmly responded to. (Cheers.) His Excellency the Viceroy has stood at the helm of affairs during a critical period of the country's history ; famine, war with cross-border tribes, depreciated currency, famines, and wars. Happily that devotion to duty which is never wanting on great occasions has enabled him to tide over all, and at the close of his period of office he will, I trust, leave India prosperous and contented. (Cheers.) Which Britain has acquired and which will be defended to the last by British hearts. (Cheers and cries of dissent.) The thanks of the British Parliament are never given, but for the noblest services, and those who have served the Colonies well are not to be forgotten by the leaders of what has justly been called "the brightest jewel in the Crown" shine conspicuous there with His Excellency at the head of the list. (Cheers). But for his absence from Bombay on an important duty we should have seen Sir Richard Temple here this evening. His Excellency is possessed of those stirling qualities of head and heart which are ever appreciated in a position like this. (Cheers). During the last two years and-a-half which he has been amongst us he has shown what personal energy can accomplish. (Hear, hear). No man has ever done more or seen so much of the Presidency in a similar period. Not only will he have left behind him much that he found it, but richer in those useful works which will be his best claim to the gratitude of posterity, and to the well earned title of a "pillar of the Empire." (Loud cheers). There is a bright future before him and a still higher rank to be attained. (Cheers.) Indeed we live in is endeared to us by many associations. Although lately owing to bad trade and the reduced value of the rupee, many are apt to exclaim,

"A merry place, 'tis said, in days of yore.
But something ails to now!"

times are improving, and our spirits are rising with them—(cheers)—India is on the high road to improvement ; there seems to be some great improvement ; the subjects of the country are loyal and they feel the benefit of the Government of the British Raj. The spread of intelligence has been marked by a keener interest being taken in all matters which concern the welfare of the country. (Cheers). Many of us have spent a number of years here, and, I think, we all prize as we ought to do, the land we live in. (Hear, hear.) Then, gentlemen, let us drink to "The Viceroy, the Governor of Bombay, and the land we live in." I ask the Honourable Mr. Ashburner, acting President of the Legislative Council, to reply. (Cheers.)

"Rule Britannia"—Band.

The Hon. Mr. Ashburner in responding said—Gentlemen,—In replying to the toast which has just been proposed by the chairman, I am confronted with no unimportant difficulties. I was not aware that I should be called upon to respond until a short time since, and such a weighty subject requires more consideration than I have been able to give to it. I have always thought that the public in Europe look over much over us in this country, inasmuch as when they are called upon to speak they can always abuse their enemies. This is a subject we are deprived from entering upon as we have no enemies—(laughter and cheers)—and if we had we are commanded to respect and love our enemies, and pray for those who despitefully use us. (Laughter.) It would be well for us to follow these precepts. Gentlemen, this exhortation to love our enemies, reminds me of a tale of a Spanish general who was reproved for having no enemies, and who replied, "I have no enemies—I have hang them all." (Laughter.) We have not quite come to that yet, but still we are in the position of that happy family which used to be exhibited on Westminster Bridge, in which a number of animals lived very amicably in a cage, notwithstanding their mixed character. If any of our people give us trouble, we get Sir Frank Souter or Major Daniell on to them, and very soon bring them to terms. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, we have no political controversies here, but we have an enlightened public opinion, which we endeavour to use as our guide in the management of this Government. You have a remarkable instance of that in the influential meeting held two years ago, in reference to the Licence Tax. Your representations were urged in the right quarter, and you have now an Income Tax. (Laughter and groans.) But, gentlemen, it is an Income Tax without the inquisitorial objections of the income tax. (Hear, hear.) This is not the only occasion on which public opinion has made itself heard. I need only point to the proceedings of the Government with regard to the Port Trust, for there also public opinion directed the Government, and induced them to adopt the proper course. The various owners of the foreshore property generally cut each other's throats, but on you find the whole of the foreshore properties amalgamated, with a proper arrangement of dues, which will not at any rate injure trade, and which will offer additional facilities. Gentlemen, in the name of my colleagues I beg to return thanks for the enthusiastic manner in which you have received this toast (cheers.)

The Chairman—Next on the list of toasts is that of the Army, the Navy, and the Volunteers. No toast could be more welcome at the present time. (Hear, hear.) To our gallant army which never turns its back on a foe in conjunction with the navy, we owe the safety of our ever increasing empire. (Cheers.) The calls have of late been many and onerous ; but right nobly have they been met. On the fields of Zululand the British Army has just overcome a bold, although a savage, foe, and happily peace is now restored in a country which requires repose. [Cheers.] Nearer home the dark and treacherous deeds of the Afghans have been avenged, and the sons of General Roberts and his brave comrades in arms will ever live in the history of a greatful nation. (Loud cheers.) Bombay has played a conspicuous part in the campaign, but it would be invidious to mention names when there are so many conspicuous. Veni, vidi vici may well be written of the events of the year. (Hear, hear.) Although the navy has not been so prominently before the public within the last few months as the army has yet at no time would, the last signal of the hero of Trafalgar—"England expects every man will do his duty"—be more heartily responded to than now. (Cheers.) We see the commotion which even a change of the position of the Mediterranean fleet can cause in the Councils of Europe, and well may we feel proud of such a safeguard against injustice and oppression. (Hear, hear.) The known power of the British fleet was and still is a great instrument in checking the ambition of the Northern Power which has seldom ceased to be a source of disquietude. (Cheers.) In her Blue Jackets England will ever find true bulwarks, and never had she better bulwarks than to-day. [Cheers.] We are really proud of the latest addition to our protecting forces. The Volunteer movement in Bombay has been a popular one, and the manner in which it has been maintained reflects the highest credit on its organisers. [Hear, hear.] In the ranks of the Volunteers we have good men and true, and if their country ever calls on them we shall find them ready and willing to discharge the highest duty a soldier can be called upon to undertake. [Hear, hear.] In drinking this toast, permit me to turn to Major Birch for a response for the Army ; to H. E. Admiral Gore-Jones for the Navy ; and to General Hewett for the Volunteers. [Cheers.]

"Hearts of Oak," and
"British Grenadiers"—Band.

Major Birch—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen,—Excuse me, if I say, I feel somewhat diffident in responding to this toast. I feel that some one senior to me could have performed the duty more satisfactorily. [No, no.] I am sure it is with pride and pleasure to my self that I rise to hear that the toast of the army has been received with enthusiasm, and I feel equally sure that the heart of every Scotchman will swell with pride, when he reads of the noble deeds that are daily performed at the front by the Highlanders. [Cheers.] The part played by the Bombay troops in this campaign has not been a very glorious one, but I feel sure that if at any time the Bombay troops are called upon to advance to meet the enemy, they will carry with them a reputation equal to that gained by the more fortunate troops of other presidencies at the front. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, on behalf of the service to which I have the honour to belong, I beg to return thanks for the cordial manner in which you have received this toast. (Cheers.)

His Excellency Admiral Jones—It is a very fortunate thing for me, and a very fortunate thing for the service that I represent—the Royal Navy of England—that the service requries very little the aid of rhetoric to speak its good deeds. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, the Navy of England stands on a broad base of its own great deeds. (Cheers.) There is scarcely a page of English history in which we do not find some glorious deed recorded by it. (Hear, hear.) There are no episodes in English history that I feel come more thoroughly home to the minds and hearts of Englishmen than the glorious recital of those great victories which culminated in Trafalgar. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, I do not say that such was the case, but is such the case now ? Is Sherwood Forest, what Sherwood once has been ?" Well, I say "Yes." (Loud cheers.) Although we have no great recent victories to speak of, we have an unbroken record of glorious deeds since those days, which show that the English sailor is now what he has ever been. (Cheers.) We have Algiers, Navarino, Acre, trenches of Sebastopol ; we have the Indian Mutiny and the glorious deeds which followed that gallant Scotchman, Sir James Hope. (Cheers). Then we have the Abyssinian, the Ashantee and the Zulu campaigns, in all of which I think the Navy has shown that "Jack" is the same fighting animal that he ever was. [Loud cheers.] Now, gentlemen, I think that the Navy of the present day is quite superior to his old brother. [Hear, hear.] If the mighty mariner who fell at Trafalgar was to rise from his grave and behold the monsters of the deep, which are called ships, he would be struck with amazement. He would see first furnaces in the interior of these ships : he would see first guns each weighing as much as the whole of his pigmy broadside ; he would see grains of powder larger in size than the projectiles with which he gained his great victories. He would see all this and be astonished. [Cheers]. And he would be still more astonished if he was told that these mighty guns might count as nothing, for what they had most to fear was what they did not see, such as submarine mines, torpedos, and other unseen dangers. These are the things we have to fear "enough," he would say, "avaunt, I know, I know." [Laughter]. Gentlemen, these are what the modern mariner has to contend with, and I have no hesitation in saying that the ordinary seamen of the present day is a better instructed man than was the officer of Nelson's time. [Cheers]. We have a great press which shows to all the world everything that is done [hear, hear]—and if any little accident occurs to the British Navy it is speedily—it is heralded all over the world. On the occasion, which the chairman has mentioned, in a great crisis of the late war between Turkey and Russia, when Admiral Hornby's fleet performed a manœuvre which really put the press on the qui vive, perhaps, of anything which has done during that war, when he took his fleet up the Dardanelles in the midst of a blinding snowstorm, not knowing whether he would be attacked from the land or not, very little was said about it ; but when a ship, whilst on a peaceful manœuvre, has collided with another ship doing very little injury, a great deal is made of the fact. [Hear, hear]. The great things are not told, and the little things are told. [Cheers]. Gentlemen, I take it the English Navy exercises a great influence for good and has earned for herself a rôle far worthier than that of a victor. [Cheers]. She eradicates slavery, she puts down piracy, she protects commerce, and so acts as the police of the world. [Cheers]. In fact she is more employed in time of war. I think there is no community than that of Bombay which more thoroughly appreciates this, if we may judge by the reception we always receive ; and if we may judge by that magnificent Sailors' Home, that we see in the city, especially for the benefit of the toilers of the deep. It is now more than 16 years ago since I was in Bombay, and during that time the material progress of the place has been something wonderful. I see splendid buildings on the west side, where, when I was here before, the grass grew, and the water flowed. I see a magnificent dock capable of containing almost the whole fleet of the world, and certainly all vessels that visit your port ; and I only hope a dry dock will be constructed as a companion to the wet one—a dock which will be able to accommodate the largest vessels in Her Majesty's Navy. All that I have seen convinces me that the merchants of Bombay are determined to keep their objective pal fairways has been the motto of India. [Loud cheers.]

General Hewitt—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen,—I thank you for the hearty manner in which you have received the toast of the Army, Navy and Volunteers. I think it will be allowed that the Volunteer movement is very popular, and that all those who have enrolled themselves as Volunteers, deserve every commendation. They devote a great deal of their time, and, indeed, sacrifice their pleasure, in order to perform properly the duties which devolve upon their position. Only last month I was obliged in order to get some shooting practice at the range at Coorla, and yet they are at their legitimate duties at the proper time. The officers are equally zealous in the performance of their duties. The captains of companies are often early in the morning in order to be present at the drill before the Secretariat and to set a good example to the men by their punctuality and zeal. The Bombay Volunteers, gentlemen, I consider, are particularly fortunate in having for their Honorary Colonel, our respected and revered Governor—(hear, hear,)—and as Senior Major a judge of the High Court. (Cheers). A better nomination than that of Mr. Justice Bayley as Major, I think we could not possibly have had. (Cheers). He takes the very greatest interest in the corps, and I consider the members are particularly fortunate in securing him as their Major. (Cheers). I will not detain you longer, gentlemen, but will simply thank you for the manner in which you have received the toast, with the assurance that, should the services of the Bombay Volunteers be required, they will perform their duties as good and loyal soldiers, and equally as well as any in Her Majesty's Army. (Cheers).

The Hon'ble M. Balfour then rose to propose the next toast—that of the Legislature of India. He said—This next toast has been confided to my care, and I rise with a fitting sense of the grave and serious nature of the duty I have to perform, however unworthily. (Cheers). Gentlemen, on the 30th of November, St. Andrew, the Patron Saint of Scotland, was removed from his subluinary sphere, and in commemoration of this sad event, in recognition of the good he did while here below, it has been from time immemorial the want of Scotchmen to assemble themselves together on this anniversary and drain one solemn bow to the pious memory of St. Andrew. (Cheers.) With reference to this subject and to this meeting I may venture to call your attention to the copious words in which Mr. A. Forbes commences an article which lately appeared in the Nineteenth Century. Now, gentlemen, in our own case we may not admit the truth of the conclusion at which Mr. Archibald Forbes arrives, that patriotism is a strong protest against it, and yet when I remember that for seven long years we have failed in our duty, failed to assemble on St. Andrew's day, to do honour to those who have preceded us, who "raised the patriot brand" and poured the "pastoral lay," when we failed to do that we left out a country to the north of England, but a country known and respected throughout the wide world, I do think our patriotism has been with out that fervour which ought to mark it, and that something of an apology is due on this occasion for our past remissness and I have much pleasure in moving the amendment in future. (Loud cheers). While making this admission I am bound to say that on this occasion we have enjoyed a pleasant opportunity of recalling the memories of our youth and of our native land and of reminding that patriotism which never dies out of a true Scottish heart. (Cheers).

Home ! 'tis the name of all that sweetens life ;
Of 'tis a name of more than magic spell,
Whose sacred power who can't for bear to tell ;
He who long distant from his native land,
Feels at her name his eager love expand ;
Whether as exiled, banished, doom'd to roam,
To that dear point his thoughts, his wishes, bend ;
And still he owns where'er his footsteps roam,
Life's choicest blessings centre all—at Home ! [Cheers.]

But to return to the more direct subject, matter of my toast. I began by mentioning the date of St. Andrew's death, but I knew there are some irreverent enough to desire to know all about the birth, parentage and lineage of our Patron Saint—[laughter]—and one, a Scotsman, has presented me with a pamphlet with some interesting details, but they are of too serious a character for a meeting like this, if not, indeed, apocryphal. In the days when St. Andrew lived, there were no officer for the registration of births and deaths, and consequently no registration [laughter]. I am, therefore, placed somewhat at a disadvantage ; but in ranging this history as best I could during the short time allowed me to prepare for this toast, I find some wonderful evidence of the high esteem in which St. Andrew was held as an apostle of the Christian faith, and of the mighty power which his name exerted. [Cheers]. As an instance, I may mention that when Queen Boadicea led her army against the Roman legions took and burnt the London they had built, and destroyed 30,000 of the enemy, she shot which burst from her lovely lips, and made the welkin ring, which animated her soldiers to victory, was "St. Andrew and Bonnie Scotland." Again, in more modern times when William of Deloraine took that wonderful ride from Branksome Hall to Melrose so well described by the Wizard of the North in the lay of the Last Minstrel—you will all remember the following verses describing his position at the awful moment when the mystic book was to be removed :—

" Often had William of Deloraine
Rode thence by the light of the moon plain
And trampled down the woman slain,
And neither known remorse nor awe,
Yet nor more and awe by word
His breath came thick, his head turned round,
When this strange scene of death he saw."
What was that enabled wanin his hand to find and
And stilled his joints with nerves of iron twined
Which shook like aspen leaves in wind ?—St. Andrew !

(cheers). Here alas ! it is that in any compendious classical Dictionary you may find more details of the deities of the pagan world than I have given of our Patron Saint. You may there learn how Jupiter was saved by his anxious ma' giving Saturn a stone to eat instead of the succulent infant (laughter). But should any one desire further information regarding St. Andrew I would refer him to the Local branch of the Asiatic Society, whose duty I find it is to ransack the blotted pages of the past, and find some clue to unravel the tangled skein of forgotten history [laughter]. I think St. Andrew will find there some occupation. [Renewed laughter and cheers]. Of one thing I can assure you, and that is that St. Andrew, while in life, was all that is good, virtuous, and great. Not a town in all Scotland has not a church called after him. His name has descended to us with all the fragrance of sanctity, and his name is preserved in the proudest order of the British Empire, the Order of the Thistle, the jewel of which is the figure of St. Andr

MR. J. C. PINTO, the Proprietor of the both Hotels, begs to inform the Public that the above Hotels are now OPEN to VISITORS. There are seven separate Bungelows attached to the Hotels well adapted for Families, for whose comfort every care is taken. The Hotels are well situated, occupy a central position, and are therefore very conveniently placed within the reach of several POINTS. They are also nearest to the Station and in a breezy locality under the shade of large trees, which diminish the glare and keep the extensive compound always fresh and cool.
